Memorial Day Parade and Cemetery Program Here Thursday

American Legion sponsors program — Line of march from City Hall at 9:30—The Rev. John V. Axtell will be speaker.

Plans are completed for the annual Memorial Day observance here tomorrow, Thursday.

The observance will begin at 10 o'clock in the morning with the formation of a parade at the City Hall and a march through Main, Front and Maple streets. Fraternal, civic and military organizations in the community have been asked to take part in this parade. School children will also march as in past years. It is expected that the Boy and Girl Scouts, the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs and the Grangers will be in the line of march with the American Legion and Auxiliary and the Spanish American War veterans. Eugene Albee, Addison's last survivor of the Civil War, died during the past year here. The high school band will provide music for the parade.

The line of march will end at the cemetery where speeches will remind people of the solemnity of the day, recalling the first Memorial Day and a recitation of the now famous Gettysburg address. The Rev. John V. Axtell of the Presbyterian Church will be the speaker of the day. The high school band will play military airs and the Star Spangled Banner to close the program.

Members of the Williams-Green-Grass Post American Legion are in charge of the program. They will call the roll of the dead, fire a salute to the dead and taps will be sounded.

Hi-Lights and Shadows of the Week's News

News of the surrender of Belgian King Leopold struck the French and British commands with stunning force yesterday. Leopold is supposed to now be in some secret chateau in his own country. Meanwhile many Belgian officers have asserted the King had no right to surrender.

Surrender of King Leopold and whatever forces followed his submissive move have made more acute the critical situation of French and British forces in Flanders. Hemmed in on three sides this army of nearly one million men must re-establish contact with the French to the south to avoid extermination or capture. Escape across the English Channel is threatened by the Nazi troops closing in on the ports along the coast.

Five million refugees from Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg and northern France have created a fearful problem to the French nation geared to fight the war. Most of the refugees are women and children or old men unable to bear arms. Tragedy stalks with their straggling columns wherever they go. Their presence on most of the roads of France have greatly hindered military movements and added daily headaches to the French commanders trying to maneuver troops and equipment against the Germans.

The French high command claimed Monday the German drive had stalled on many sections of the front even though troops continued to move through the bottle-neck between allied held land. Military spokesmen told how the invaders had suffered tremendous losses in sending wave after wave of troops against objectives. Dead Germans were said to lay in mounds like the piles of killed before Verdun in the World War.

The New York Herald Tribune stated in a special article that Hitler's much quoted "secret weapon" was a fleet of planes carrying 30-ton tanks. The tanks are drawn up into the planes through a trap door with portable hoists. Planes are said to have a wing spread of 200 feet and to be powered with four 1,200 horsepower motors. If true, Hitler may be saving these weapons for his proposed invasion of Britain.

The eyes of the world have been glued on Italy for several days as signs point to Mussolini joining Hitler in an attempt to quickly finish the Allies. All British attempts to hold the Italians in a neutral status appeared destined to fail as war preparations were hurried forward by Il Duce. Hundreds of Americans are hurrying to leave Italy.

Former President Hoover in a speech Monday evening advocated a single administrator to handle the huge problem of building up the defense of the United States. Over a nation-wide radio hook-up Mr. Hoover said this administrator should be an industrialist, not a politician.

The U. S. House with a chorus of ayes voted this week to shift the immigration service from the Labor Department to the Department of Justice, to deal quickly with any "Fifth Columns" in the country. Republicans supported the proposal although many of them declared a simpler way to deal with this problem would be to dismiss Madame Perkins, Secretary of Labor for incompetence.

ATTEND RALLY

The Misses Blanche Shelanskey and Dorothy and Doris Jones attended an area B. Y. P. U. rally at Bath, Monday evening. Blanche Shelanskey and Dorothy Jones entered essays, in the contest sponsored by the area.

This will be the first meeting of the new year for the recently elected officers, Mr. Crane being re-elected. However, a summer picnic or its equivalent is planned and announcement of this will be made before the close of the year.

Police Warn Speeders Arrests Will Continue

Chief Leavenworth has issued a second warning against speeding in the village limits. Three arrests have been made since the campaign against speeding on Front, Maple, Tuscarora and Main streets started.

Owing to the number of children on the streets and the methods of parking here, there is always danger of a speeding car being out of control when a child or car crosses the speeding driver's path.

Attention is called to the fact that most of last year's accidents were on clear days and from speeding cars, more being caused this way than from any other cause.

Dog Quarantine Will Be Enforced

The dog quarantine is still in effect in Steuben County and dog owners are asked to keep their dogs tied up after sundown or else on a leash as anyone will have the right to shoot them on sight. The reason for the quarantine is owing to the fact that Steuben County had a bill of nearly $30,000 last year for stock killed by dogs running loose at night.

Police Chief Earl Leavenworth states that the commission has been given him by the county to assure himself that no dogs are running loose, either in the village or in the vicinity.

There have been several dogs running wild in the vicinity nights without leash or owner and some drastic action will be insisted upon. State police, the sheriff's department and other enforcement agencies in the county are seeking to prevent the loss of stock life from dogs in Steuben county.

Dairy League Local Re-elects Directors

Addison local of the Dairymen's League re-elected eight directors-at-large and also chose William Newcomb, Rathbone, as delegate to the Steuben-Tioga meeting Wednesday night. The election was held in the club car last Friday night. Those elected as directors were: L. M. Hardin, James Candon, Paul Talbot, L. A. Chapin, J. A. Coulter, Ernest Strobeck, A. L. Mills and W. Clark. The group present also chose George Manley, Lindley, as delegate to the meeting in Ithaca June 20 and Mrs. Lewis Thoms of Preshe as associate delegate. Women present served warm sugar and biscuits to those present.

Red Cross Fund Here For Europe's War Children

Elmer C. Bovee, chairman of the Red Cross in Addison and chairman for the drive for funds for European Relief appeals again this week for voluntary contributions. He realizes the fact that there have been many drives in the community and hence is not making a house-to-house canvass for funds, depending upon the voluntary generosity of the people of Addison and vicinity to send funds to the Addison Bank, repository for the Addison Red Cross.

Contributions of any sum will be acceptable for Mr. Bovee feels that a person is the best judge of what can be afforded for the relief of children and women in the war-torn allied countries. Most people are aware of the fact that this is a national drive for $1,000,000 and is a humanitarian drive.

Attention is called by Mr. Bovee to a picture shown on another page of this paper which tells the story from a national viewpoint and shows what the children of war-torn allied countries are undergoing in this struggle. It is for these children that this drive is being conducted in Addison and thousands of other places throughout the nation.

Franklin Butler, West Front St., is recuperating from minor injuries received in a motor car crash Sunday morning on Butler Hill and in which a cousin, Merlin R. Butler, 24, was killed.

Pep-O Bakery Gas Well Proves Producer—Piped in Friday

Pep-O Bakery, operated by William E. Pepper and Llewellyn Towne, is now using natural gas from its own well and has been using gas from that well since Friday when it was piped into the bakery for the ovens.

Drilling operations have been under way for the past six weeks on a site east of the bakery near the Canisteo River. Water and gas were two objectives of the drillers. Early last week a small pocket of gas was tapped at 300 feet after drillers had to tap a new hole. The first hole was abandoned when rock was struck and the drills could not penetrate the strata. The Friday gas was struck at 307 feet and it is believed that the well is about 250,000 cubic capacity. A pressure of 90 pounds is recorded on instruments at the top of the well casing. Those in charge of the drilling state that there is a supply for several years for the bakery in the well.

The cost of the project will be absorbed in from 8 to 10 months use of the gas according to officials of the company. The flow is much greater than the gas well first drilled here several years ago in the rear of the school on the Vastbinder farm.

Prelude To European War is Outlined By Rush at Ad Club

Hornell Tribune editorial writer gives experiences on seven-month tour of Europe last year — Recommends United States aid in planes and money to Europe—Milton Crane re-elected president of club Supper in Grange Hall last Thursday.

Milton H. Crane, was re-elected president of the Advertising Club at the annual meeting Thursday night. The meeting was featured by a talk on Europe based on a twelve-country tour last summer. The speaker was James Rush of the Hornell Tribune editorial staff. In addition to speaking of the present crisis there he outlined methods of reading the war news and then spoke of America's part in the world situation.

The meeting was held in the Grange Hall with women of the Grange serving a roast pork supper to 40. The Rev. Nicholas Van Cossaboon opened the meeting. Songs were sung under the direction of the Rev. John V. Axtell with Miss Janet Taylor as accompanist.

Guests introduced were Arthur Peck, formerly of the high school faculty and now of Almond. He was the guest of Kenneth McCaig. Mrs. Frank Kelly, former club pianist, was the guest of Winfield S. Long.

Officers Elected

Other officers elected to serve with Mr. Crane during the coming year are: Vice president, Dr. Amos G. Stiker; secretary, Ralph B. Dykins and treasurer Harry Mullen; executive committee members, Melvin G. Hubbs, Dr. Stuart H. Bean, John B. Davis, Bernard Wilson and Bligh W. Chatfield. The nominating committee report was presented by Walter Goff assisted by Dr. Matthew Whitmore, the Rev. Mondula C. Johns and Carl Rouse.

President Crane thanked the club members for their cooperation and praised the work of the active committee. He mentioned that identifying tags had been printed to promote Addison by groups going outside the community. These tags were worn by the championship orchestra on the trip to Albany and more are available to any group desiring to have them.

No Solicitors

The Solicitation Committee was revived with the Rev. John V. Axtell, Ray S. Brown and Charles Crane as members. Anyone soliciting funds from members must have the approval of this organization. The metal tags used to restrain solicitation here are available for members from the secretary.

Andrew W. Knebel reported that through contributions and a concert the high school orchestra did not have to use any of the taxpayer's money from the school district for the Albany trip to national music contests.

The speaker of the day was then presented by William Lundrigan as program chairman.

Mr. Rush

Mr. Rush prefaced his remarks by stating that he realized the rapidity with which things are happening in Europe and that whatever he would say would be considered antiquated but he hoped to give an account of some things he had seen, would give a hint on how to read European war news from the newspapers and would conclude with where the United States stands in the international situation.

War Preparations

He spoke of arrival in London June 10 of last year and of seeing war planes, battle ships and other wartime activity. In the beautiful parks were bomb-proof shelters, vacant stores were taken over for recruiting officers for the Royal Air Force. Mr. Rush said in part, "There seemed to be a Hitler mania. Everyone was reading about him, about his life and philosophy."

"Going into northern Germany one is struck by the fact everyone seems to be in uniform. Men in uniform seem to be marching or singing all night. Boys in labor service wear uniforms, the youths wear uniforms two years if in army or navy, and in the air corps four years. Then there are the storm troopers, the internal police. Sign-

Phoenix Hose Dance June 7

The Lone Pine Ramblers will play for the third in a series of spring dances being promoted by the members of the Phoenix Hose Company in Addison. The dance will be in the City Hall here Friday night, June 7 beginning at 9 o'clock. The first in the series of these dances attracted a large attendance by virtue of the fact the orchestra is one of the finer broadcasting orchestras of this vicinity and the fact that the Hose Company members provide a good time for those who attend their affairs.

The money raised by the volunteer firemen will be used for the purchase of equipment and for renovating their quarters in the city hall. There are several young men in the company who are active in community life and several of the older men, who have long been active in fire fighting here and they are in asking support for the dance in return for the time they give in the interests of community safety.

MEMORIAL DAY

Arrival of another Memorial Day finds us a nation of thinking individuals gazing fearfully across the water at the unbelievable thing happening in Europe. In 1917 and '18 our boys crossed the Atlantic to fight in a war we were told was to "end war". Yet that war ended nothing, and the peace which followed was no peace at all, merely a little recess in this struggle of the ages between the forces of selfishness and avarice.

We decorated the graves in 1920 in the high hope that the supreme sacrifice which had been made by thousands would redeem our children from the horrors of future battlefields from which the inventions of man had taken all personal glory. At that day we rested smugly in the belief American ideals had been responsible for the re-establishment of many small nations that had lived for years as vassal states. We prided ourselves that the Poles, the Czechs, the Lithuanians, the Finns and other peoples in the great basin of Europe could be happy in the enjoyment of freedoms denied them through endless shifting of borders in the age-long wars that have mutilated the continent. Our satisfaction was spiced with the knowledge our country had not asked nor wanted one foot of conquered territory—one dollar of indemnity.

Indeed, we complacently regarded the newlyrun national boundaries of 1920 as a masterpiece of geography-making which would stand the test of time. We strewed flowers on the graves of the departed friends and at the same time saved some generous bunches to pin on our chests in appreciation of the job done.

How foolishly wrong we were! How stupid we were in thinking we could take land from one country and give it to another and still make both parties like the deal. How plain dumb to believe lines drawn on a map in 1920 would mark the recognized boundaries of European countries twenty years later.

Today the fate of two of the great free countries of the world hangs perilously in the balance.
In the space of less than two months four European countries have fallen almost wholly under the domination of a madman possessing the military genius of Napoleon coupled with the heartlessness of Nero. The lines we drew on a map in 1919 have been obliterated as a sponge sweeps a slate. The people we thought to liberate have, one by one, fallen under the domination of stronger nations. The fate of the innocent behind the lines of battle in this new war is one hundred times more terrible than the innocent of 1914-18.

This May of 1940 we toss flowers not only upon the graves of those who lost their lives in the last war, the Civil War and the wars we fought before—we stand wretchedly in front of a newly-opened grave into which are falling almost every hope we held that this world might be visited with lasting peace. We have found no peace, and slowly we have been swinging to the dismal belief the only road to peace for us is to arm ourselves so formidably no nation will ever dare attack us.

We envisage an air fleet of fifty thousand planes hovering over borders ready to give chase to the first aggressor. We prepare to build such a huge navy no country can afford to spend the money to equal it. We invent and start to build rifles of great superiority to arm our soldiers. We try to convince ourselves that by making our country so formidable we shall guarantee our people peace. Will formidable armaments guarantee us peace?

Have formidable armaments guaranteed the German fathers and mothers peace for their sons and daughters?

There is no peace in Germany nor is there peace among any of Germany's neighbors, even though some have not yet been invaded. A tremendous air force did not bring peace to Germany, neither did the great fleets of tanks nor the piles of explosives. There has been no peace in Germany since Hitler started to re-arm the country. Why? Because the armaments were not made for peace. They were made for war, and possession of these armaments has brought the Germans to war with their neighbors.

World peace will never come through every country arming itself so strongly no other country dares attack. For always some country falls under the leadership of a man who does dare attack regardless of the consequences. If Germany had only a police force, as the post-war treaty intended she only should have, then Germany would not be attacking her neighbors. But the peace treaty did not put strong enough barriers against rearmament. Under the leadership of Hitler the Germans broke down those barriers and the politicians of the other European states were too concerned with their own deals to keep Germany the impotent state Clemenceau intended she should remain.

What is the answer? What agency can come upon the scene to bring abiding peace upon the world?

Peace will only come when it grows from men's hearts. While nations look at brother nations and say, "what can I take from you", there can be no peace. But when nations say to brother nations, "what can I do to help you", then there grows the basis of abiding peace.

War has never brought one hour of happiness to any human being.

Every forward step civilization has taken in more than 2,000 years has been fostered by the spirit of brotherhood. Any lasting peace after this war will have to be made in the spirit of brotherhood. Invention has progressed so much more rapidly than human beings have multiplied, wars cannot be allowed to follow each other in twenty-year cycles.

If Hitler wins this great gamble with his mechanized force, France will be hopelessly impoverished by the peace he will enforce. But Before France and Britain together are forced to their knees the German people will also be visited with the horrors of 1940 warfare from the skies. Victory for Germany will mean nothing except shattered homes, dead relatives, crippled sons, starvation and blighted lives.

With the devastating effects of the worst battle in history ringing in our ears we need to remember the watchwords, "Faith, hope and charity".
And today as never before in the history of mankind the only real hope for a lasting peace in this world is the hope that peace may be made with "Charity".

THE TAX FRANKENSTEIN

The annual report to the employees of the Consolidated Edison Company of New York, gives some interesting information.

Of the company's revenue dollar for 1939, labor got 27.6 cents; taxes 21.7 cents; coal, supplies, etc., 18.5 cents; depreciation 10 cents; interest on borrowed money 7.7 cents; common stock 9.2 cents; preferred stock 4.3 cents; surplus 1 cent.

As usual today, the tax gatherer got more than the investors whose savings made the building of this great labor employing company possible.

The total operating revenue of the company for 1939 was $251,672,000. Taxes took $54,677,000.
Stated another way, in 1939 dividends took $1.00; paid taxes took $1.61; paid wages took $2.05. At the rate taxes are increasing, they will soon take more than wages, which means that the wage earner and rate payer are being sacrificed to the tax gatherer.

Public officials who promote socialization of the power industry by building government power projects over the nation, never mention the tax-destroying character of their program. They overlook the fact that such government plants are tax exempt. The tax money taken from highly-taxed private plants is used to help build the tax-subsidized public plants and destroy the private enterprises that are paying the enormous taxes required by government today to meet public spending.

Who will make up the taxes thus paid by private companies? Not the government plants, but remaining taxpayers who will be doubly assessed to maintain the destructive program of government competition with its own citizens.

Another item of interest in the report shows that the average age of men working for the company is 39.9 years, and of women, 34 years.
Every seventh employee is a woman. Of those who now work for the company, 42.2 per cent are over 40.

Private enterprise in this country has more to offer to the common people than any socialistic doctrine ever proposed by any politician in any country.

With the record to look at it is hard to understand why our people tolerate political schemes for the destruction of our American system of private enterprise.

DOWN TO EARTH

Chronic spendthrifts always run into trouble.
Therefore, it is not surprising that the Federal government is beginning to notice gathering clouds on the fiscal horizon. Governments, like individuals, must pay interest on borrowed money.
And the more money borrowed, the greater the accumulation of interest payable. When a debtor ceases to pay interest, his credit standing promptly collapses.

The annual interest bill on the Federal debt is currently about $1,100,000,000. This is a sizable sum even in these days of billion-dollar appropriations. And the interest problem must grow steadily more serious as our "chronic spendthrift" policy continues. Meanwhile it continues to serve as a down-to-earth reminder that government is like the rest of us. Its existence as a going concern depends upon its credit standing. It must meet its just obligations, ultimately pay its debts—or collapse, dragging with it millions of hard-working citizens into the shambles of bankruptcy and despair.

"Our policy should be to prevent these European wars if we can, and otherwise to stand aside while the nations of Europe find their own destiny. We must stand aside if for no other reason than that one strong western nation be left to preserve the flame of civilization."—Charles A.
Lindbergh.

PLACING THE WREATH

Once again the House has rejected an effort by the Republicans to have the administration of relief returned to the States and individual localities. Representative Taber of Auburn, ranking Republican member of the Appropriations Committee sponsored an amendment which would authorize Federal grants in aid to individual localities on a 75-25 percent basis, with the government bearing the large end of the cost. The measure appropriating 975 million for WPA was finally passed with but 21 members voting against it. It is election year the Members could not afford to appear to be opposed to those in need although the testimony revealed numerous instances of wasteful extravagance.

Harry Bridges, the West Coast labor leader, charged with being a Communist, will be summarily deported as an undesirable alien if the bill recently favorably reported by the House Committee on Immigration is passed. The bill sets a precedent in legislative history for never before has this country deported an alien by the legislative mandate.

Of all silly charges made by the New Dealers against the Republicans, the one recently made by Paul McNutt takes the prize. Speaking at a Young Democratic Convention in Iowa he declared that the Republicans propose to carry out the New Deal if placed in charge of the government at the coming election.

With but one dissenting vote (Marcantonio, N. Y.) the House brushed aside all thoughts of political partisanship and passed the measure giving the President unrestricted powers in building up our military defense equipment. It is singular that the Democrats insist there should be no politics in dealing with military preparedness due to the war situation abroad, but at the same time do not hesitate to emphasize that a third term for Roosevelt is imperative.

Therewith turn of events in Europe brings out in the open again, the question of war loans to some of the democracies of the world which are now at war. Under the present law, known as the Johnson Act, we cannot loan money to nations who are in default on their world war debt to us. Already bills have been introduced to amend certain parts of the Johnson Act, so as to enable us to loan money to the Allies with which to purchase materials other than those used directly in warfare as defined in our Neutrality Act.

None of the reorganization orders of the President has met with such general approval as the one submitted a few days ago which would take the Immigration and Naturalization Service out of the Department of Labor, headed by Miss Perkins, and place it under the Department of Justice, where J. Edgar Hoover, of the FBI can keep his eye on the undesirable aliens. So anxious was the Congress to have the order become effective as soon as possible that a bill was introduced to make it op-

The Rambler

Have you street numbers on your homes? I'm not trying to drum up business for anyone, but it would be a distinct advantage to you as well as those seeking you if you had your house numbers, whether landlord or tenant. Many times people seeking you have to be told complicated directions about your house being next to so-and-so's or so many houses from this or that corner. A number would prevent much of that.

It begins to look as though the dump is going to get real spruced up. There is talk now of planting a hedge along most of the front of it. A swell idea and I hope it is carried out soon, before the road and vicinity becomes littered again.

Maybe we can keep from raising our boys to be soldiers, but we can just bet we are raising them to be taxpayers.

Indications are that Steuben County is to have another dairy group for organizers seem to be busy going about the hills. Wonder what this will all lead to?

The thorax is first filled with air by a deep inspiration; the glottis is then closed. When a sufficiently high intrapulmonic pressure is attained, the glottis opens and the sudden change in pressure causes a forcible expulsion of air. That, in case you are interested, is a scientific description of a sneeze.

Last week the Rambler went completely screwy in reporting that Lew Robbins had snared four large trout at Goodhue Lake last week. Somehow, I should have known better but will have a hard time proving that to the fishermen who have been kidding me during the past week.
What he did catch were bullheads for no trout have been taken from Goodhue in several years. My only consolation in the report last week is in the fact that at least the paper is read for I took a kidding from so many that word of mouth could not have passed it around so quickly.

Keep your Americanism and keep it clear. Think well of the significance of Memorial Day and the thousands who have given you your liberty. Pray for them and that this country will have continual peace so that they shall not have died in vain.

In speaking of Americanism, I am reliably informed that there are several Nazi sympathizers in Steuben County, many of them in key positions in some of our foremost industries. Their chief mission now seems to be to keep America out of the war and should war come their job will be sabotage as Von Rint-len directed in this country during the last World War.

I still think it would be a good idea to have benches in the parks in the village, especially in Wom-bough's Park on Wall street. Older people wonder why young people park on the highways and want to go out of town. Secluded places to tween the layers of the cake, and heap whipped cream on top.

A suggested dinner menu is: Panbroiled cube steaks, new potatoes (scrubbed and boiled in their skins), buttered asparagus, whole wheat rolls, and rhubarb shortcake, with milk for the children, and tea, coffee or milk for the adults.

THE PRINTED WORD

No. 3

Even pictographs, in time, proved more a hindrance than a help to early man.
They were like restraining jackets, too binding to express fully the richening thought and experience of his daily life. Somehow, probably in a sudden flash of insight, he grasped the value of "chaining together" pictographic symbols with ideas. In such a manner, then, the symbol for "mouth" also meant "speaking", the symbol for "sun" also meant "day".

The resultant was an "ideogram", a symbol representing a generalized idea derived from an object.
Ideographic writing has persisted down to the present day. Leading practitioners of this system of writing are the modern Chinese.

But once again, man's hungry need for expression outran the means at his command. Man chafed under the restriction of ideograms as he had under pictographs. He not only acted now, but started to think.
Things no longer just happened; he got to "mulling over" his experiences. When hunting, he not only drew bow on a deer or speared a fish, but thought out rather carefully just when, and where, and how best to make his kill. In other words, he began to have a lot of new IDEAS.

New ideas couldn't be put into writing unless new ideograms were invented, and it was a tedious task to work out new ideograms. Besides, it was becoming evident that a lifetime of study would be required if man were to learn and remember the mass of growing ideograms.
To solve this problem, earliest written records show, ideographic writing, in which the symbols stand for SOUNDS.

Next week, in the fourth article of this series, we will tell of the evolution of phonetic writing, referred to as "the most signal intellectual achievement ever attained by man".

nificantly enough they have a skull and cross bones insignia, on their helmets. They must be pure Aryan, good looking and strong.

Food Scarce

"There is a noticeable deficiency in foods. There is plenty of some but not of the right kinds. Mashed potatoes are plentiful and people are subsisting without vegetables and fruits which are just not to be found.

"In the free city of Danzig, since taken over by Germany, I found at that time they wanted to return to Germany. The city was mostly German with the Poles controlling the customs.

"Stockholm was significant for two things. The one was the antiquated fort in the harbor of which it is said the German militarist Von Moltke laughed twice in his life, once when his mother-in-law died and the second time when he saw that fort. And the Swedish navy could not be seen because an English liner was in the way. Sweden was not preparing for war.

"The Swedes people have a standard of living equal to our own and poverty has been wiped out which puts to shame some of our slum districts. Co-operatives are prevalent there in merchandising and housing. Young people buy apartments in buildings.

Praises Finns

"Finland is one of the finest countries in Europe, and I'm not saying this because of our American sympathies for that country. Russian bombs destroyed much of it for all but two towns were struck by Russian bombs. The Finnish people hated the Russians. University students and workers gave their vacations without pay to build the Mannerheim line. It seems Russia has been lenient in not overrunning the country.

"Poland I found full of uniforms. The alliance with England had just been signed and they were confident Germany would not try anything. However, the Poles had nothing to defend, for communication lines were poor and defenses bad so that the country was paralyzed quickly.

Hungary Remembers

"Hungary I found easy-going under a semi-dictator. They have not forgotten the world war when they lost half of their country. In the center of the capital city is a map in flowers showing the country and also those parts which were taken away as the result of the world war and given to Czechoslovakia, Austria, Yugo-Slavia and other countries. The flag there is at half mast and will remain that way until those countries are returned.

"In Italy I found people opposed to war. They do not seem to like the Germans. There is little military preparation. All officers there wear a row of medals, sometimes 16 at a time.

The first blackout of my European trip was experienced when I went to France from Italy. The train was blacked-out and only pale blue bulbs were in use. This was August 29, before war was declared. It was here I first received word that Hitler had marched into Poland, a thing which could not be believed. France was preparing. An 11-hour train trip took us 30 hours with little sleep and no food. Troops were being moved rapidly. In the last war troops went off with a song, but this time there is grim determination and not much enthusiasm.

"Picture if you can life business being wiped out, careers ended in two seconds. Owners of buildings and business lost everything to war needs. While in Paris I heard four air raid warnings and it seems the siren is under your pillow. You just get up, go into an air raid shelter and remain until another siren signal blows. Not enough has been said about the psychological effect of blackouts.

"It is a common sight there to see white holes or empty spaces in newspapers where censors have lifted out whole stories and printers have not had an opportunity to replace the news. The Paris edition of the Herald-Tribune receives news of the war by radio from the United States.

"It is hard to know what to read in the newspapers," continued the speaker. "Papers print what governments give them. And how do we know what to believe? One thing I believe can be called truthful and that is when a country admits a loss. But if it claims a victory, watch out. Claims cannot be trusted. When you see a by-line on a story, ask yourself, did he see, is he sending from a city where news is censored and who censored it? You have to rely on your intelligence in reading many stories.

U. S. Frontiers in Europe

"Two years ago President Roosevelt said the American frontier is on the Rhine. This seems true in the light of events. Our navy is built on the premise that the British and French fleets are in the Atlantic and if they collapse our defense system is knocked out. Our Pacific is our back yard and our fleet is there.

"In the last war we were at peace with Japan. Britain was at peace with Japan. And remember that American fleets at that time could only carry 50 per cent of the needs of the men across. We are now interested in Japan and the Dutch East Indies from which we receive rubber. If Japan takes the East Indies we are going to be short of rubber. And we are committed to protection for the Philippines until 1944. We will not be surprised in the Caribbean but there is danger in Greenland as an air base for Germany and if we take that, Japan is in a position to take the Dutch East Indies on the same basis.

"I believe we should not help the Allies with men but we should send planes as quickly as possible and give them economic consideration. We are tied up with Europe. We have critical decisions to make and it is for us to think and then make the best decision we can."

Mr. Rush was given a rising vote of thanks.

CREATING BETTER HOMES SINCE 1886

The Folks You Really Care For Are The Ones Who Enjoy the Inside of Your Home!

The chilly evenings still demand protection from the out-of-doors, and your home supplies the ideal place for young folks who are held back from beaches, late evening picnics and "roasts".

Their companions are the ones you want to see in your home, and the pride of opening the house for such gala events depends largely on the facilities and attractiveness.

As always, MacDowell's can help to make any home more attractive, more suitable—and without spending large amounts. If you have not already experienced the thrill of economy at MacDowell's, we urge you to come in, look around, make comparisons of quality and price. The decision rests with you on every score.

ANCIENT CARAVANS

Were once the only answer to the problem of "How to Keep Food Fresh."

In olden days man had not discovered ways of keeping food fresh by refrigeration. Women in warm countries like Spain and Italy were presented a year around problem of preventing loss to food through spoilage. Food had to be eaten within a few hours or it became worthless. Then enlightenment slowly came and with it the first victory of man over his ancient enemy of food spoilage.

Quite certainly through accident it was discovered that spices mixed with food prevented it from spoiling, and out of that discovery grew the custom of sending men on long, laborious trips across water and over deserts to the East where spices grew in abundance. Men were killed by the thousands and died of thirst and starvation carrying these loads of spices from the Orient to Europe. They died that their women and children might be saved from the maladies brought on by use of spoiled food.

They died for a cause little knowing the scientific reason back of the discovery spices kept food untainted. They did not know as we do today that food spoilage is caused by bacteria and bacteria need warmth and moisture to thrive. Spices had a tendency to dry out foods and thus retarded the growth of bacteria.

Modern men do not cross deserts to get spices to preserve food. They have found a better way to keep food cold. The caravan has gone out of date and in its place has come the modern, efficient Frigidaire "Cold-Wall" which not only prevents spoilage, but keeps food fresh and appetizing day after day.
